WHAT DO I NEED?
- A computer with Internet Access.
- A valid email account.
- A word processor (such as Microsoft Office or OpenOffice).

For some exercises you will need to install several programs, if they are not compatible with your operating system (Windows, Mac OS or Linux), let us know and we will send you adapted materials.

THE TASKS
Once we have received your completed assignments, we correct them and annotate anything we believe to be relevant: mistakes, ways to improve the style, other options etc. Some exercises are very similar, but they have different deadlines. We do this because we believe it is important that you read the corrections we make to avoid making the same mistakes in future tasks.

Each informative letter specifies exactly what the task involves. Make sure you understand the assignment and that you are doing what you are asked for in each module.

Finally, the format and layout of the exercises are important. You should pay close attention to the informative letter and review your work before sending it to make sure you submit your final version.

WHAT IS DISTANCE LEARNING?
Distance learning is just that – you can study from wherever you choose. We will send you all the information via email and you can download everything you need from our website.
In every materials pack you will receive:
1. An informative letter (which provides information about the tasks and their deadlines).
2. Theoretical documentation or corresponding program guides.
3. When appropriate: texts to translate (scripts, subtitles, websites, etc.).

WHAT IF I HAVE A QUESTION?
Ask! We are here to help you by email or iPhone. If you cannot install a program or you have problems with any exercises, please contact us and we will guide you through the process.

LANGUAGE COMBINATIONS
Which one or which ones do you have to choose? Only the first combination of languages is mandatory and we recommend that it be into your own native language (as the target language) as this will be the combination that you will have more job opportunities. However, many students choose their mother tongue as their source language and they translate into other languages in order to practice them. If you do this, we suggest you choose your second and/or third language combination.

PRACTICAL PHASE
There are several options for completing the practical phase: practical assignment, research, internship. However, they will be at the end of the second year of the Master’s, once you have finished all of the modules. This should give you a clearer view on what you want to focus on in this phase of the programme (subtitling, dubbing, audio description, localisation etc.).
